Development Council

David LeFebvre is the Supplier Diversity Program Manager for the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. David has extensive experience building strategic, internal and external, relationships to drive high impact.

Prior to working at the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, David spent 15 years in the social sector “connecting the dots” and “making the case” with local businesses and community organizations to leverage investment in capacity-building and project support.

His career started by working with the Virginia Center for Inclusive Communities facilitating education and awareness on topics of diversity, inclusion, equity, and access across the Commonwealth of Virginia. In addition to his work in DEI, he is a certified fundraising professional (CFRE) with over 12 years in philanthropy and volunteer management.
